International Congress about Military Bases And their importance for global wars

8 and 9 September 2017

Versöhnungskirche, Leipzigerstraße 5,
67663 Kaiserslautern

Topics and aims

Without global Military Bases wars would be impossible. For that reason, the closure and conversion of these Bases, for example to civil production places, is a fundamental aim of the international peace movement.

US-Military Bases are predominant in foreign countries and legitimize their presence through statuses of forces agreement. Those contracts can be terminated successfully, as examples in Latin America and Central Asia have shown. The German government as well, could cancel the agreement on US-Ramstein. With this congress, we want to critically examine the geo-strategic role of military bases and to illustrate the demands and chances of movements within the realm of civil society.
